

Micro Course Monday – AI Literacy

Micro Course	AI Literacy
Date	Monday, February 3rd
Time	3:00-4:00pm
In-Person Location	Dana Hall 228 – campus map – parking in lot 5
Online Link	Live online in Collaborate
Presenter	Michelle Burke

The graphic features a white humanoid robot with glowing blue eyes and a chest, holding a tablet displaying code. The background is dark blue with a grid pattern. Text is overlaid on the image: 'MICRO COURSE MONDAY' in white, 'AI Literacy' in blue, and a central white box with black text: 'Join Michelle Burke on Monday, February 3rd at 3:00pm in Dana 228 or live online in collaborate'. A QR code is in the bottom left, and the Canton Career Readiness logo is in the bottom right.

Explore fundamental AI concepts, including machine learning, natural language processing, computer vision, robotics, and ethical considerations. Participants will also learn about AI systems, prompt engineering and ethical decision-making in AI applications.

Still interested in the topic?

If you want to develop a better understanding of AI, its practical uses, and ethical considerations, enroll in either the Artificial Intelligence or AI & Communication microcredentials. The microcredentials each include 6 credits. Learn about AI Fundamentals and Advanced AI & ChatGPT or Professional Writing & Communication and Artificial Intelligence & Communication.